The Chronicle uncorks wine guide

The San Francisco Chronicle is proud to announce the upcoming launch of the Press, an online guide to California wine. With the Press' interactive map and My Trips tools, readers can personalize their own Wine Country getaways. You can search and book venues by varietal, date, price range and other features.

More than 200 Napa and Sonoma wineries have been vetted and reviewed by Chronicle wine, beer and spirits writer Esther Mobley and our staff of experts. Wine lovers can explore recommended Wine Country tours created by The Chronicle's food and wine team along with other wine industry professionals. Get off the beaten path in Napa or see Sonoma like a sommelier — and book the whole experience right on the Press.

The Press is a fun, informative site for wine novices and connoisseurs alike. Here, our wine-loving audience can read articles about tasting tips, restaurant recommendations and regional information to plan their next Wine Country vacation.

Using the Press, readers can book a Napa Valley tasting, such as this one at Frog's Leap, or stock their cellars. It does everything but pour.
